

第五部的非凡寓言

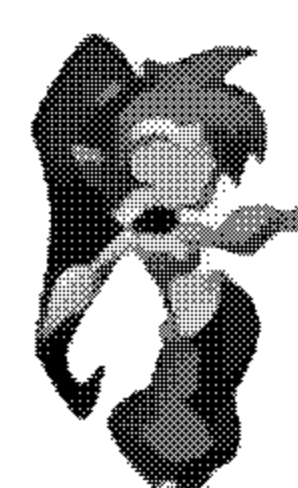

Shantae's fifth adventure shook up the formula, swapping Sequin Land for the mysterious Paradise Island. This time Shantae gains new Fusion Magic abilities that the player can use to explore a vast sunken city beneath the island. In a first for the series, Shantae meets other Half-Genies like herself, who are there to perform as the superstars of the inaugural Half-Genie Festival. They soon become fast friends. Sky, Bolo, and Uncle Mimic are invited as well - however, Rottytops is suspiciously absent. During the festival, a darkness falls over the crowd, and the Half-Genies mysteriously vanish from the stage. Who took them, and why? The island is hiding a secret, and it's up to Shantae to get to the very bottom of it!

灯神的风格

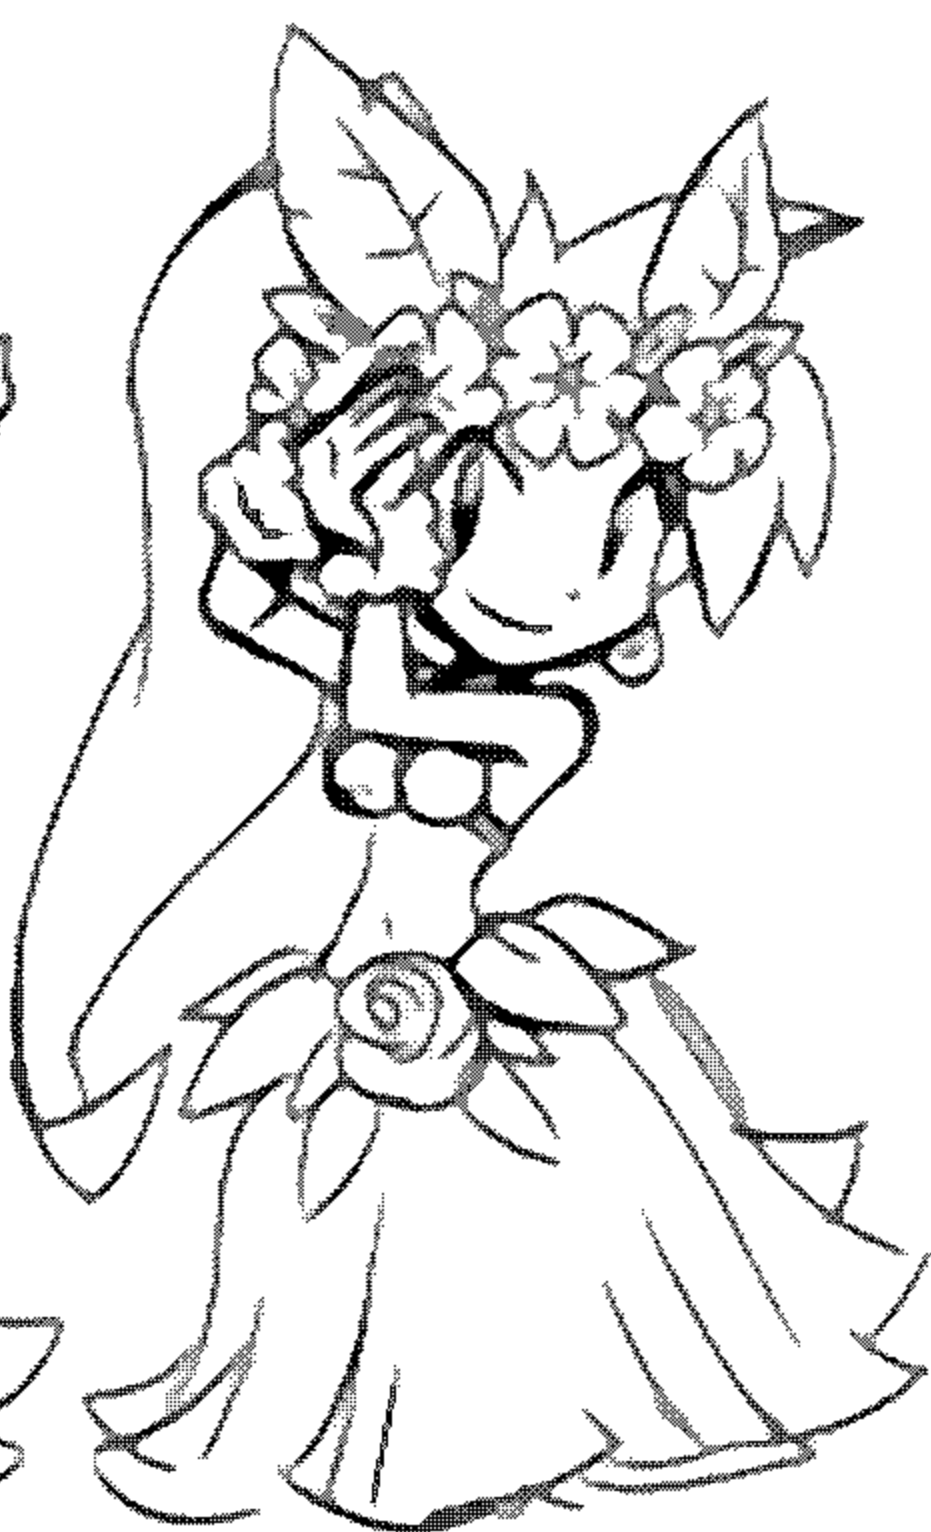

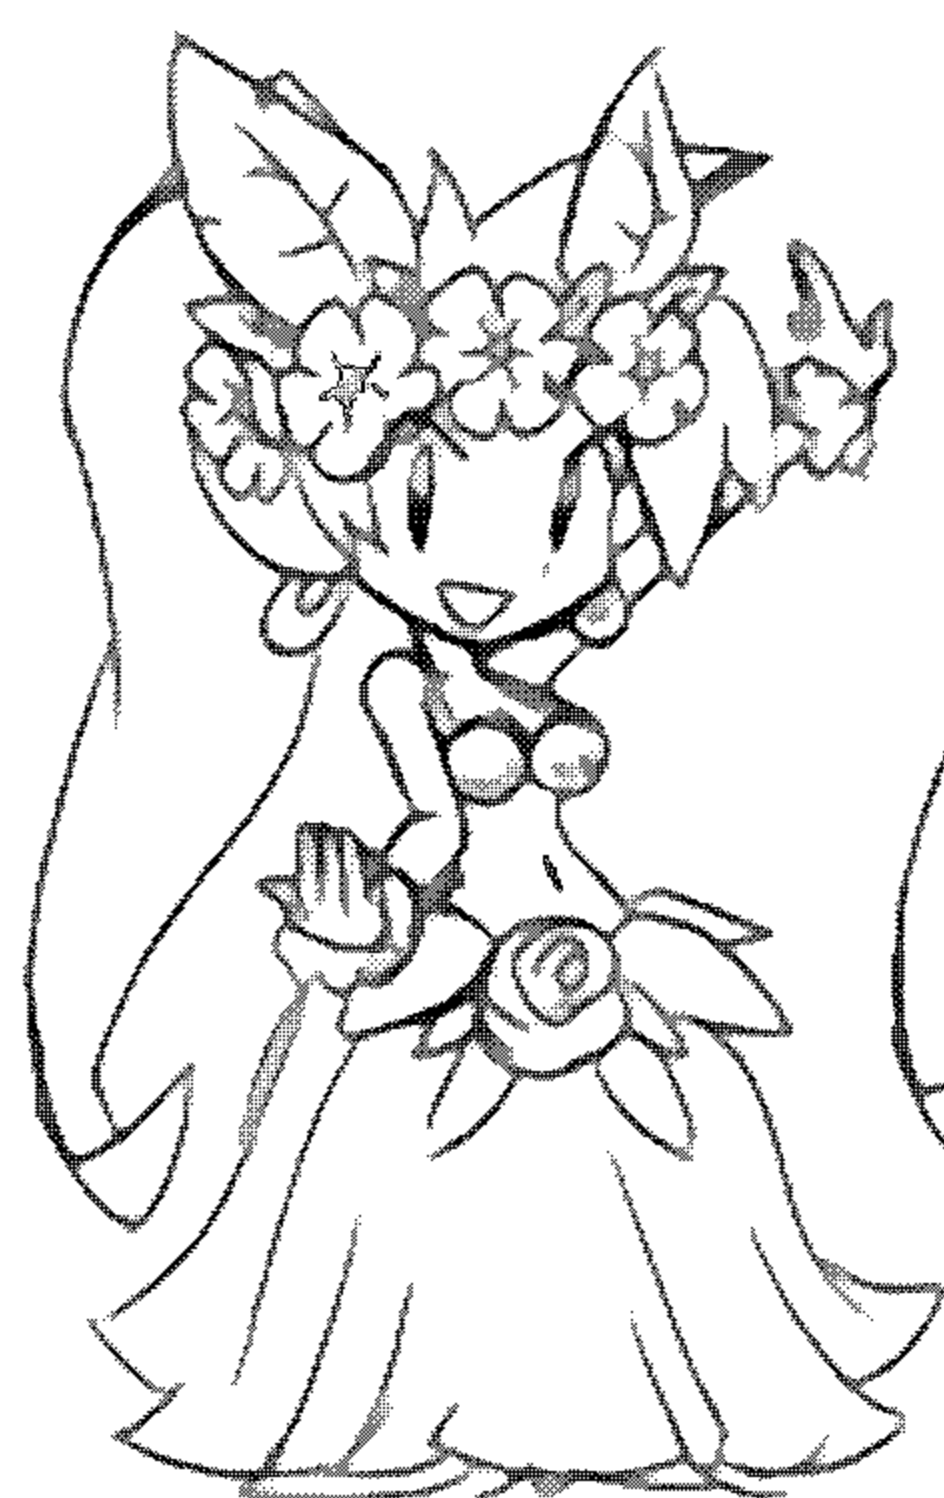

For the fifth game, Bozon approached Inti Creates to explore some new looks for Shantae, in order to make the new adventure stand out. Here is the final style created by KOU, which is found in the game's key art (with the ponytail shaped like a number 5), and is also used for the talking portraits, seen throughout the game. The new style featured hard lines and sharp corners like Half-Genie Hero's art style, but with taller proportions hearkening back to Pirate's Curse. Some of the early designs featured a fat squid-tentacle shape at the end of the ponytail, which was changed for the final release.

Blaster Master Zero illustrator Tezuka worked with Ito and KOU to further develop the style. The top left image became the basis of the new style. While the basic shapes remained the same, Bozon modified the proportions to lead to the new design (opposite page, top). If you look closely, you can see that it's really the same drawing, with pieces rearranged.

最后一步

Next, KOU drew numerous poses of Shantae in the new style to prove out the character design. This was the final step in creating the new look for our heroine!

开发新技能

In Seven Sirens, Shantae would be exploring a sunken city and gaining aquatic abilities. During pre-production, it had not yet been determined how Shantae would gain her new powers. KOU explored several ideas involving Shantae's hair transforming into aquatic forms, with Shantae herself going along for the ride! Although these ideas didn't make it into the final game, they are a ton of fun!

号宝者

The pirate queen of the seven seas, the scourge of Sequin Land - it's none other than Shantae's nemesis, the nefarious Risky Boots! Risky uses her Tinkerbat army to plunder riches and power at every opportunity. This time she's set her sights on the treasure that lies hidden beneath the island. Risky appears as a mid-stage boss for each Labyrinth, her allegiance murky at best.

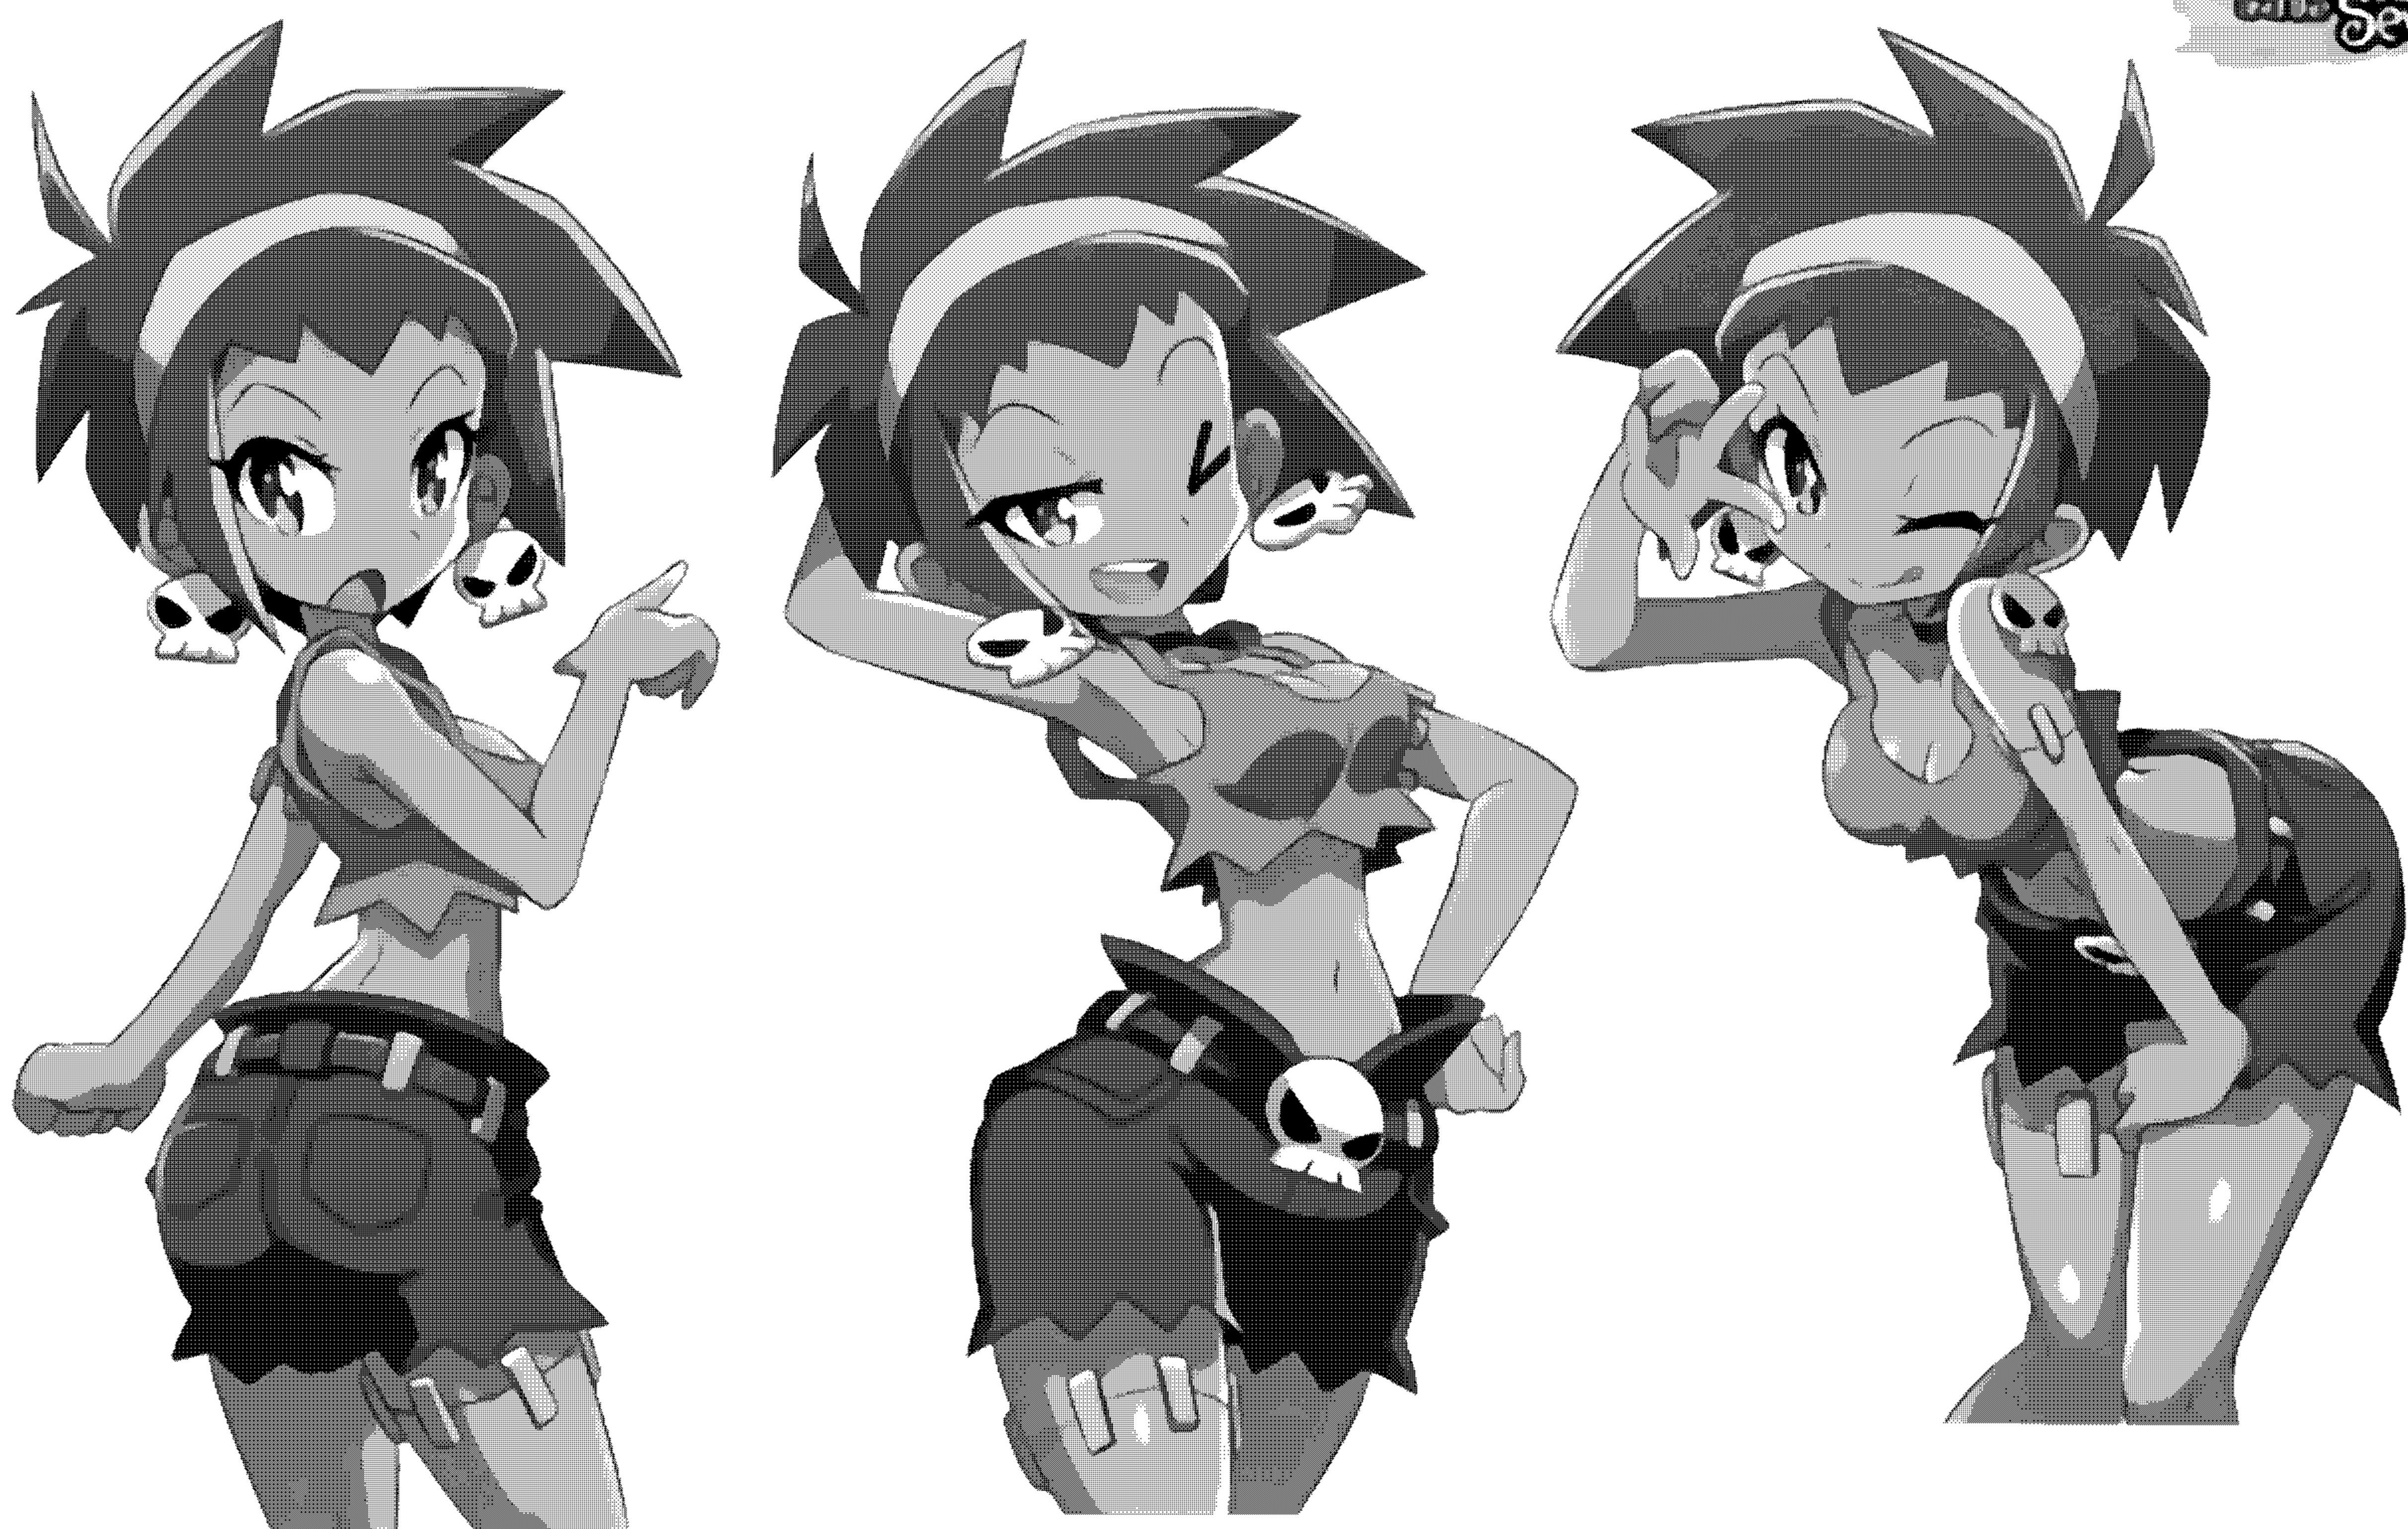

◆ 若蒂托

A playful troublemaker by nature, Rottytops the zombie is nonetheless one of Shantae's closest friends. No one's quite sure of her whereabouts at the outset of the adventure. Is she really content to sit this one out?

Plink is a seer with the ability to observe the invisible world around her. Despite her youthful appearance and chipper attitude, she is somewhat older than Shantae and has a quick wit. When the Sirens begin to terrorize the island, Plink devises a plan to merge all of the Half-Genies' combined magic into Shantae, transforming her into the Ultimate Half-Genie Superstar. Can this crazy idea really work? Plink seems to think so!

When Shantae combines her Dance Magic with one of the four Half-Genies, she gains new forms representing the powers of sight, healing, electricity, and earthquakes! Plink grants the Seer Dance, which transforms Shantae into an otherworldly, cloaked form. Vera's magic results in the Refresh Dance, changing Shantae into a mandrake-like mermaid. From Zopple's power comes the Spark Dance, turning Shantae into an electric eel. Finally, Harmony's gift is the Quake Dance, a power that can move mountains with the fiery fury of the earth's core!

The Water Lily Siren was the first enemy to go into development. This was before the "Siren" theme had been firmly established. Because of this, she is the only Siren that is not based on an aquatic creature. Early versions of the game had the player progressing through the Mossy Biome first, encountering this mossy maiden early on.

开场动画

One of the biggest surprises awaiting fans in Shantae's fifth entry was a fully animated anime opening created by none other than the revered Studio TRIGGER! TRIGGER producer Naoko Tsutsumi (Little Witch Academia) collaborated with Shantae creator Erin Bozon and Mott Bozon to bring the Shantae characters to life.

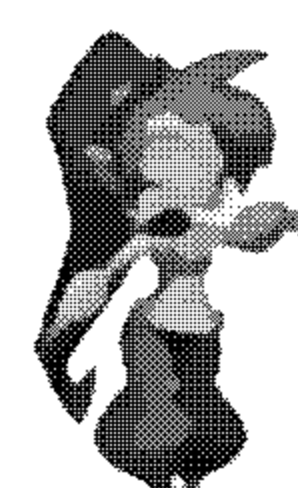

初具雏形

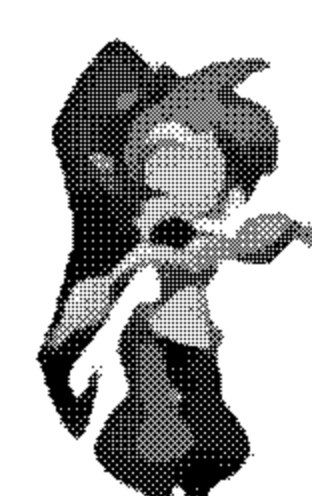

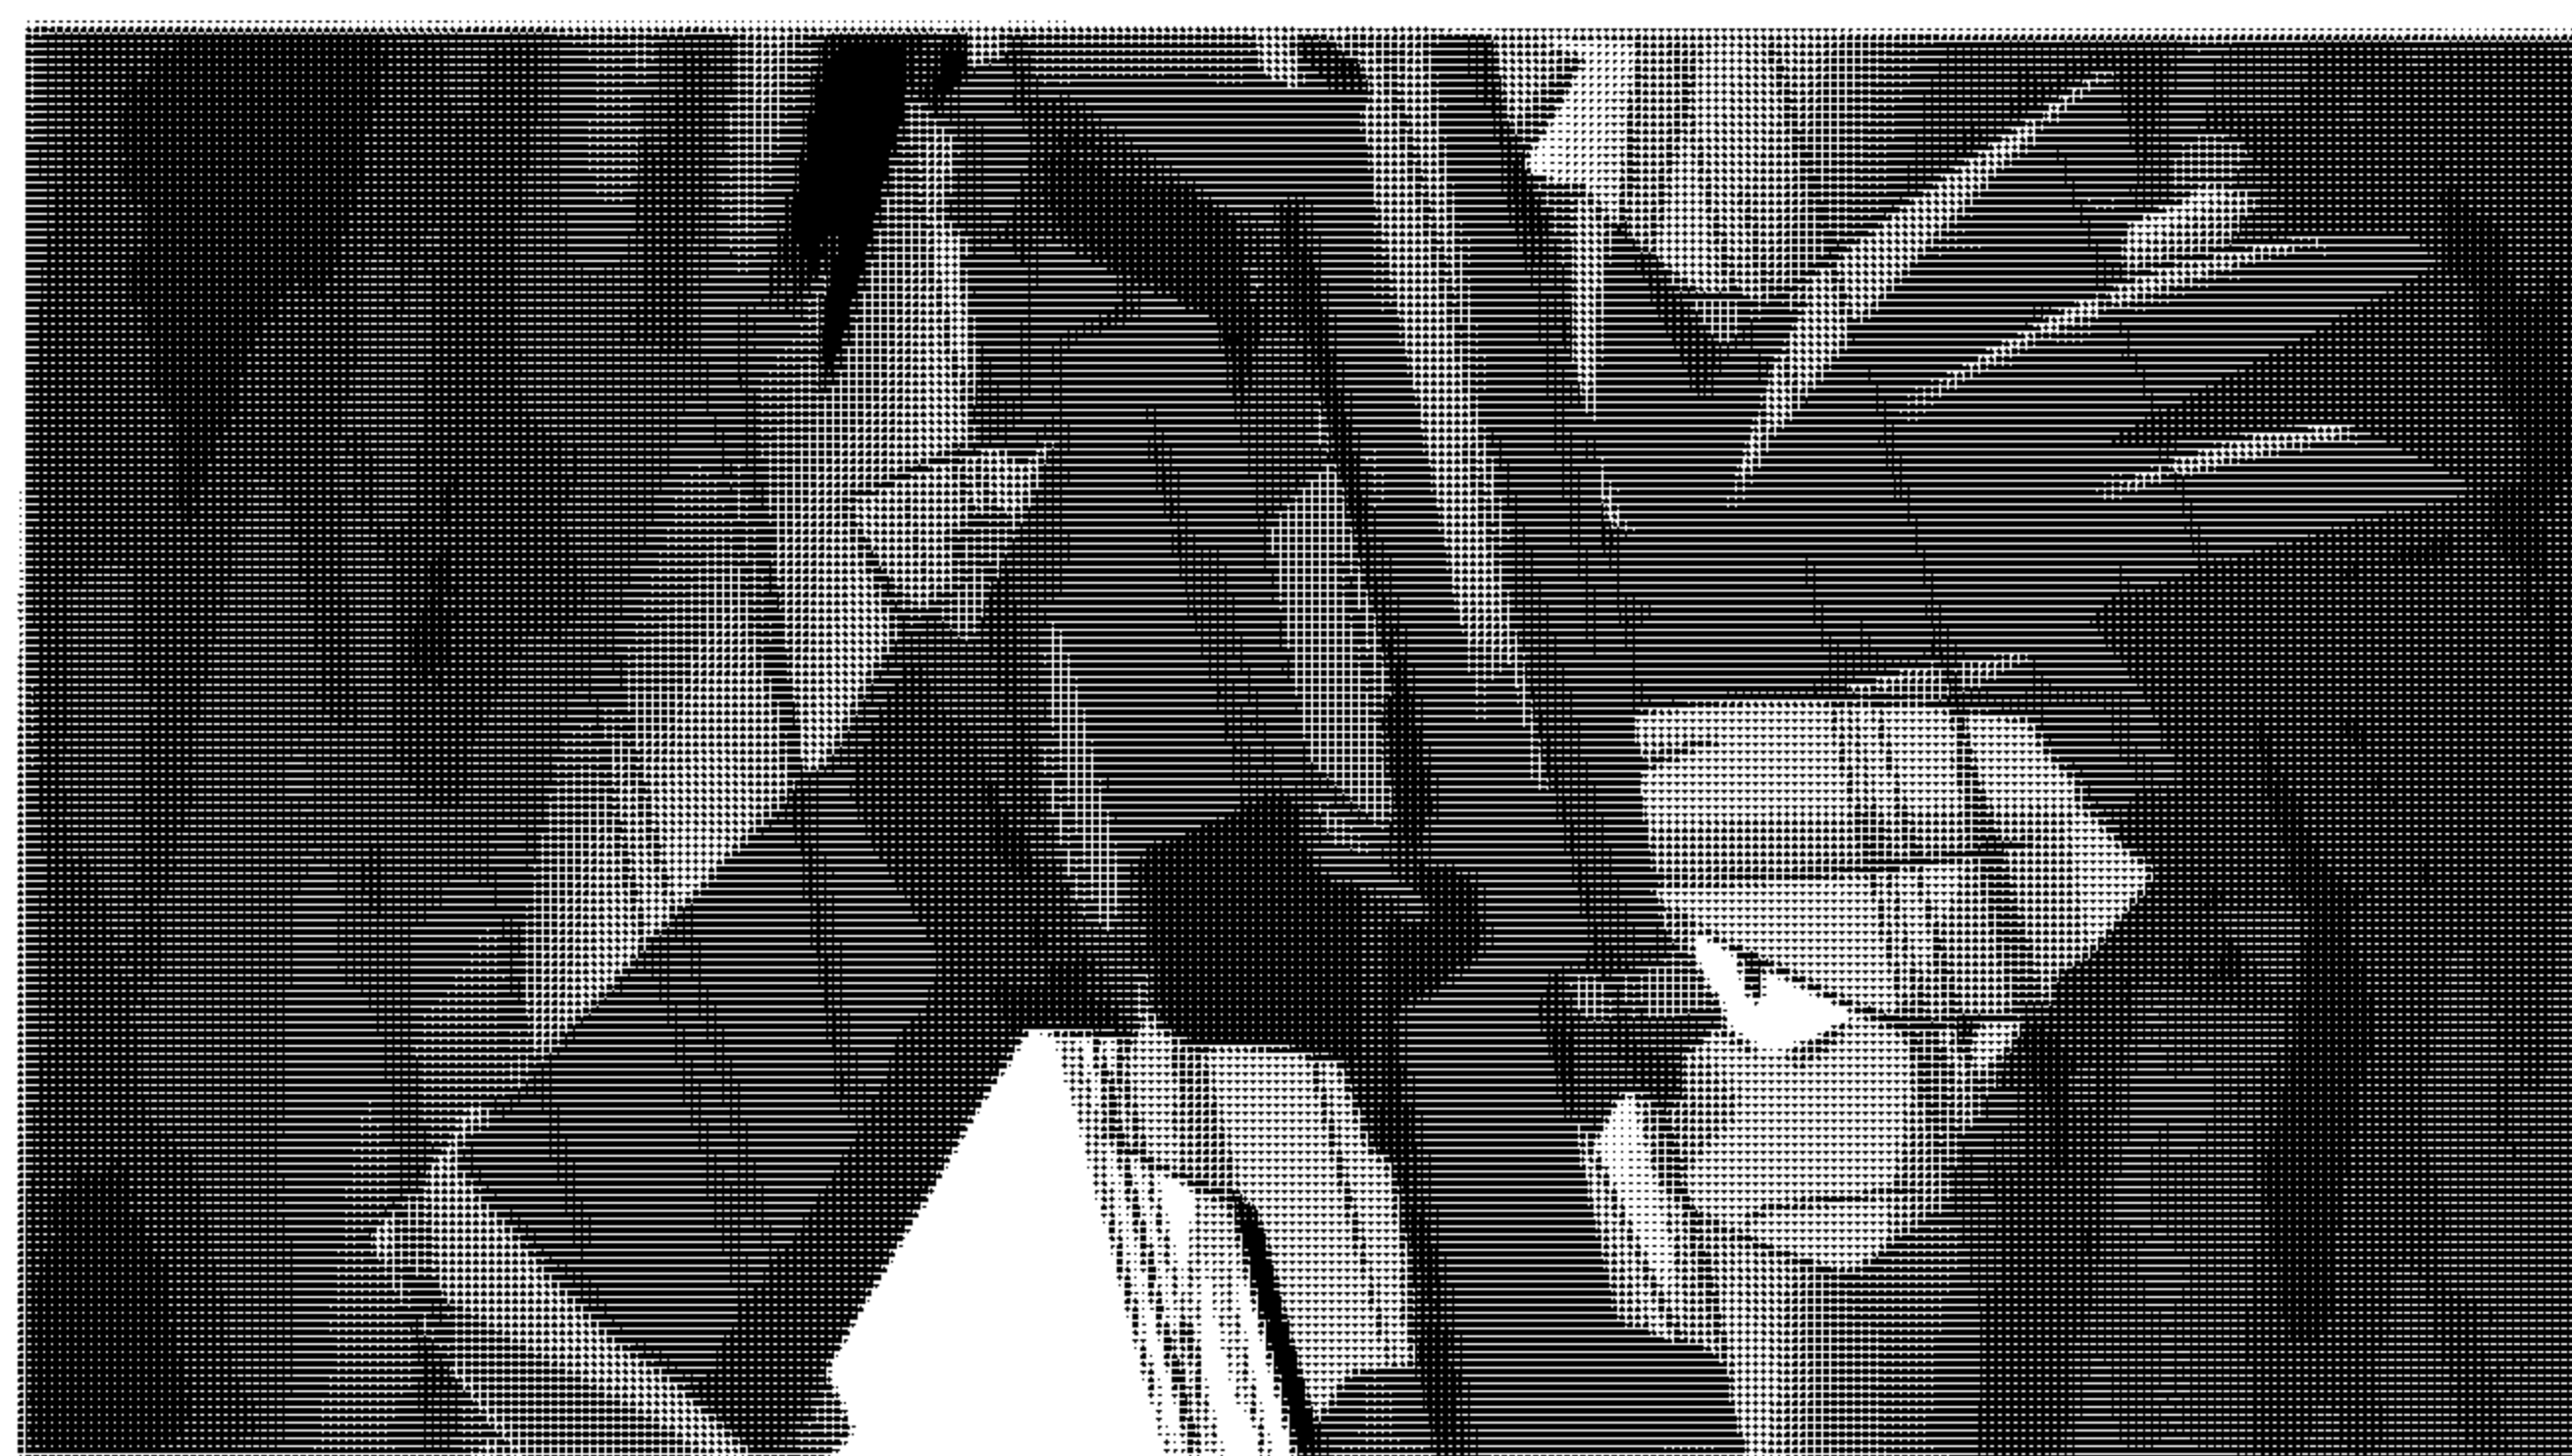

With Naoko Tsutsumi and Erin Bozon producing the effort, Matt Bozon created a rough pencil "animatic" to explain the basic movements while Studio TRIGGER artists re-envisioned the characters.

Studio TRIGGER then created a fully realized animatic, followed by rough animation, visual effects, and finally clean up and color. The end result was jaw-dropping, and unlike anything Shantae fans had seen before!
